2. SYSTEM ANALYSIS

2.1 INTRODUCTION

System analysis is a general term that refers to a structured process for identifying and solving problems. Analysis implies the process of breaking something down into its parts so that the whole may be understood. The definition of systems analysis includes not only the process of analysis, but also that of synthesis, which is the process of putting parts together to form a new whole. System analysis works with users to identify goals and build systems to achieve them. System analysis is an important phase of any system development process. The system is studied to the minutest details and analyzed. The system analyst plays the role of an interrogator and dwells deep into the working of the present system. In analysis, a detailed study of the operations performed by a system and their relationships within and outside of the system is done. A key question considered here is, "what must be done to solve the problem?" One aspect of analysis is defining the boundaries of the system and view as a whole and the inputs to the system are identified. The outputs from the system are traced through the various processes that the inputs to the system are identified. During analysis, data are collected on available files, decision points and transaction handled by present system

During study phase, I have done a preliminary analysis sufficient depth to permit a technical and economic evaluation of proposed system. The study of existing system helps to determine what the problems are. The following are the disadvantages of the existing system:

- Not User Friendly
- Can't handle to many users
- Time consuming

2.2 EXISTING SYSTEM

There are no proper beauty salons who have an own website portal to give more details to the customers. Customers can only contact them through social medias or directly.

Existing system does not provide proper information about the services and price details to customers. Existing systems are not at all working properly as per the need of customers.

2.3 PROPOSED SYSTEM

- Customers can get instant access of our salon business information
- To get feedback from real customer on salon website which creates interest in visitors to become our customer and maximize our business revenue.
- improve business with the help of customer feedback
- plays an important role in creating social network
- To promote our salon services or products.

2.3.1 WEBPAGES AND FEATURES

The visitor is assumed to have basic knowledge on how to use a computer and the Internet. Visitor will get the provision to explore the webpage, watch quality photograph and know about.

The web site is static and it contains five web pages:

1.HOME

2.SERVICES

3.LOGIN

4.ABOUT US

5.CONTACT US

HOME: The main home page-first page of the website. Just an overview about bonus plans and salon highlights.

SERVICES: Displays the list of services available and its prices.

LOGIN: a login page for customers.

ABOUT US: (about our Team, Customers reviews, Gallery)

CONTACT US: page for get in touch with our customers.where customers can provide their details and contact us.

2.3.2 BENEFITS OF THE PROPOSED SYSTEM

The benefits of the proposed system are:

- ✓ Flexible hours
- ✓ Low costs
- ✓ User – friendly
- ✓ Easy to understand
- ✓ Provide the opportunity to make appointments in advance
- ✓ Effective communication is established
- ✓ Web platform will help to access from anywhere
- ✓ Gives clear idea about the location of salon
- ✓ Help to gather information about the services provided by the salon.

2.4 FEASIBILITY STUDY

The preliminary investigations examine project feasibility. The main objective of this study is to examine whether the proposed system is feasible or not. Mainly there are three types of feasibility study to which the proposed system is subjected.

Operational feasibility determines if the human resources are available to operate the system once it has been installed. The resources that are required to implement or install are already available with the organization. The people of the organization need no exposure to computer but have to be trained to use this particular software. A few of them will be trained. Further, training is very less.

Technical feasibility assesses whether the current technical resources are sufficient for the new system. If they are not available, can they be upgraded to provide the level of technology necessary for the new system? It checks whether the proposed system can be implemented in the present system without supporting the existing hardware.

Economic feasibility determines whether the time and money are available to develop the system. It also includes the purchase of new equipment, hardware, and software. Software product must be cost effective in the development, on maintenance and in the use. Since the hardware and resources are already available with the organization and the organization can afford to allocate the required resources.

2.5.2 TOOLS / PLATFORM

HTML

Hypertext Markup Language (HTML) is the standard markup language for documents designed to be displayed in a web browser. It can be assisted by technologies such as Cascading Style Sheets (CSS) and scripting languages such as JavaScript.

Web browsers receive HTML documents from a web server or from local storage and render the documents into multimedia web pages. HTML describes the structure of a web page semantically and originally included cues for the appearance of the document.

HTML elements are the building blocks of HTML pages. With HTML constructs, images and other objects such as interactive forms may be embedded into the rendered page. HTML provides a means to create structured documents by denoting structural semantics for text such as headings, paragraphs, lists, links, quotes and other items. HTML elements are delineated by tags, written using angle brackets. Tags such as <img> and <input> directly introduce content into the page. Other tags such as  surround and provide information about document text and may include other tags as sub-elements. Browsers do not display the HTML tags, but use them to interpret the content of the page.

HTML can embed programs written in a scripting language such as JavaScript, which affects the behavior and content of web pages. Inclusion of CSS defines the look and layout of content. The World Wide Web Consortium (W3C), former maintainer of the HTML and current maintainer of the CSS standards, has encouraged the use of CSS over explicit presentational HTML since 1997.

MICROSOFT NOTEPAD

Notepad is a simple text editor for Microsoft Windows and a basic text editing program which enables computer users to create documents. It was first released as a mouse-based MS-DOS program in 1983, and has been included in all versions of Microsoft Windows since Windows 1.0 in 1985. A web browser (commonly referred to as a browser) is a software application for accessing information on the World Wide Web. Each individual web page, image, and video is identified by a distinct Uniform Resource Locator (URL), enabling browsers to retrieve these resources from a web server and display them on a user's device.

WEB BROWSER

A web browser is not the same thing as a search engine, though the two are often confused. For a user, a search engine is just a website, such as google.com, that stores searchable data about other websites. But to connect to a website's server and display its web pages, a user must have a web browser installed on their device.

As of March 2019, more than 4.3 billion people use a browser, which is about 55% of the world's population. The most popular browsers are Chrome, Firefox, Safari, Internet Explorer, and Edge.

VISUAL STUDIO CODE

Visual Studio Code is a lightweight but powerful source code editor which runs on your desktop and is available for Windows, macOS and Linux. It comes with built-in support for JavaScript, TypeScript and Node.js and has a rich ecosystem of extensions for other languages (such as C++, C#, Java, Python, PHP, Go) and runtimes (such as .NET and Unity).

2.5.3 HARDWARE SPECIFICATION

CPU TYPE: INTEL i5

CLOCK SPEED: 3.0 GHZ OR ABOVE

RAM SIZE: 512 MBDDR 8 RAM.

HARD DISK CAPACITY: 256 GB

MONITOR TYPE: LED MONITOR

KEYBOARD TYPE: MULTIMEDIA KEYBOARD

3. SYSTEM DESIGN

3.1. INTRODUCTION

The web design process starts with a visual concept, which you could sketch by hand or with software like Photoshop. Then, you use HTML and CSS to build the website. HTML and CSS are the codes for writing web pages. HTML handles the basic structure and ‘bones’ of your page, while CSS handles the style and appearance.

Web design is the visual aesthetics and page layout of a website. It goes hand-in-hand with web development in the creation of a static website or dynamic web application.

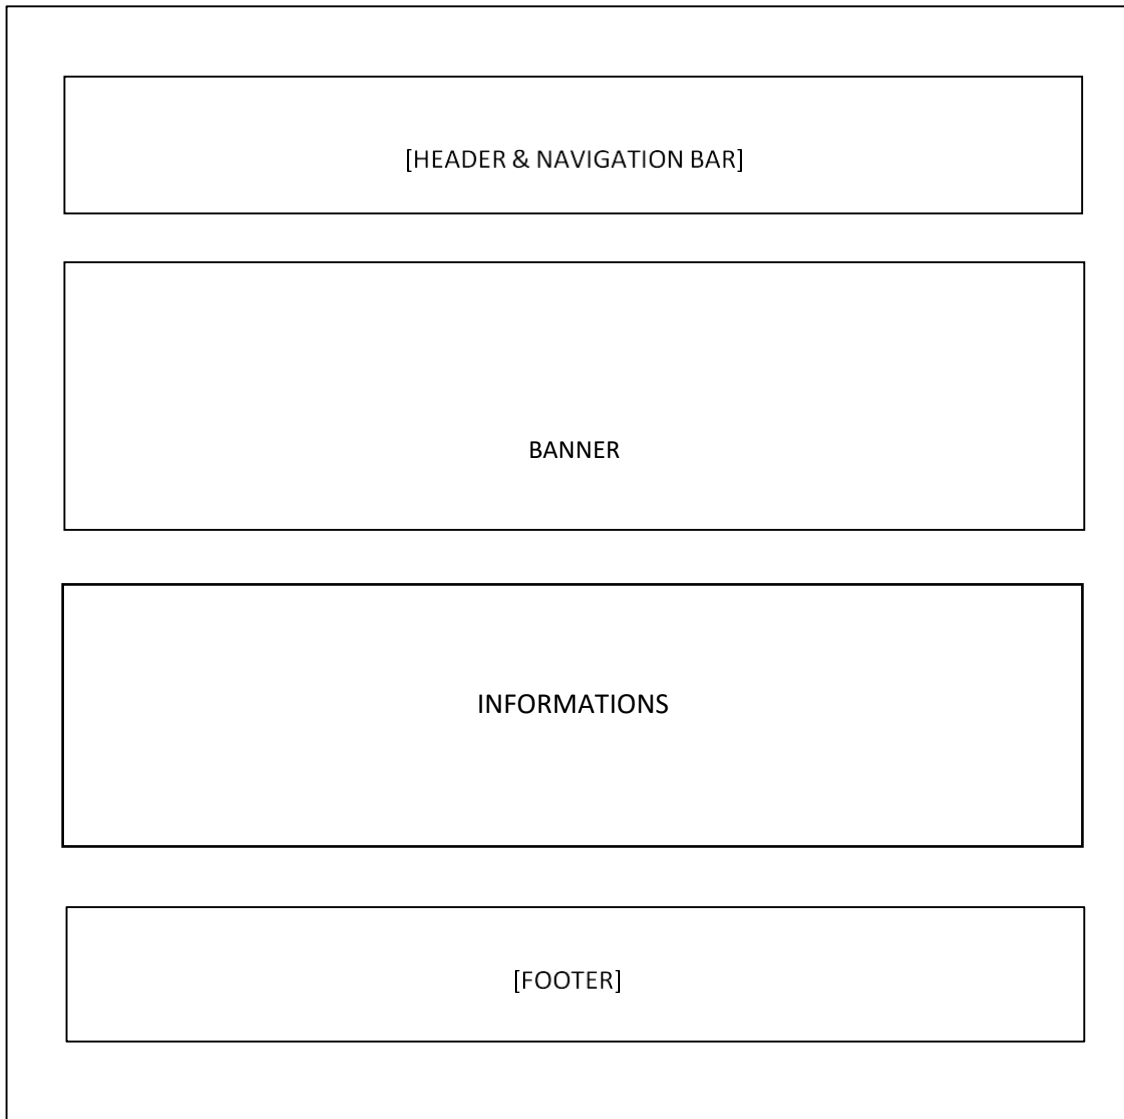

Even if you don’t consider yourself a creative person, it’s still a good idea to learn web design. No matter whether you want to make static websites or dynamic web applications, design is an important part of the process. The design is the first thing people notice when they arrive on a website, and if it’s not good enough, they’ll leave. You don’t want to create a site that frustrates people.

If you do identify yourself as a creative person, you might even consider a career as a web designer. Today, there is a huge need for competent web designers with up-to-date skills. It’s not an opportunity to be sneezed at.
